

INSTITUTO FEDERAL DE
TELECOMUNICACIONES

A large, abstract graphic on the left side of the slide consists of two overlapping, thick, green circular bands. One band is a darker shade of green, while the other is a lighter shade, creating a complex, interlocking shape.

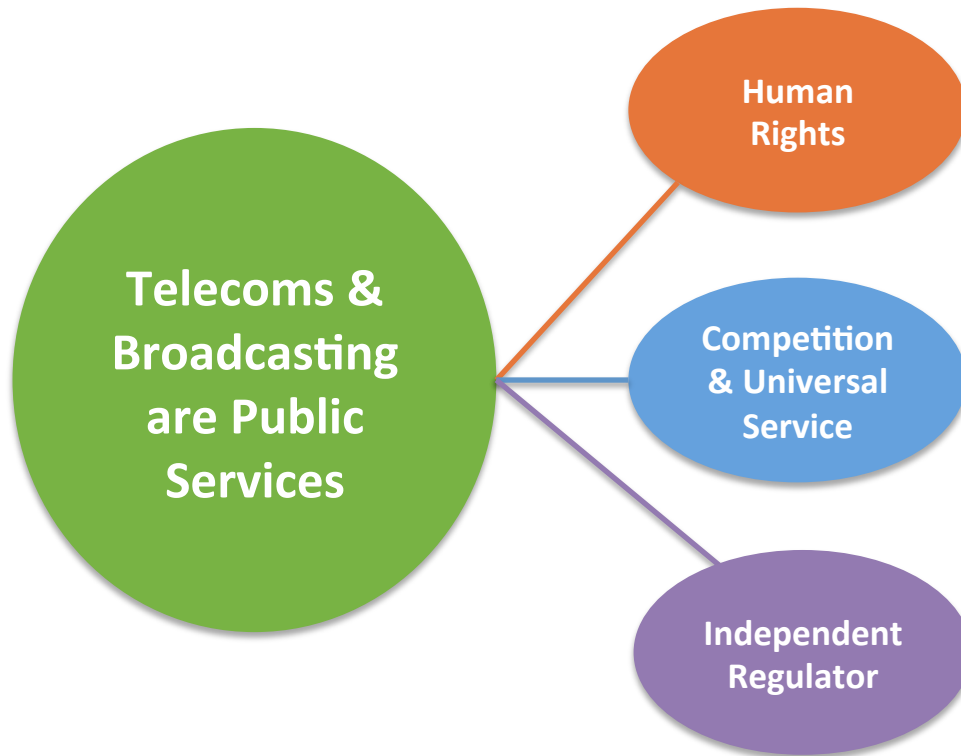

Paradigm shift on Telecommunications in Mexico

TelecomFinance Conference 2014

Fernando Borjón
Commissioner

London, UK
January, 2014

The Telecommunications Reform

Focus on users and audiences

Telecoms are an important component of Mexico's structural reforms

Government Roles for the Telecommunications Reform

Executive branch: Deployment of specific Telecoms and DTV projects

Legislative branch: Laws and resources for the Reform

Judicial branch: Specialized courts; no suspension on IFTs resolutions

Federal Telecommunications Institute (IFT)

- Constitutional body
- Regulatory authority
- Budget Autonomy
- Competition Law Enforcement Powers

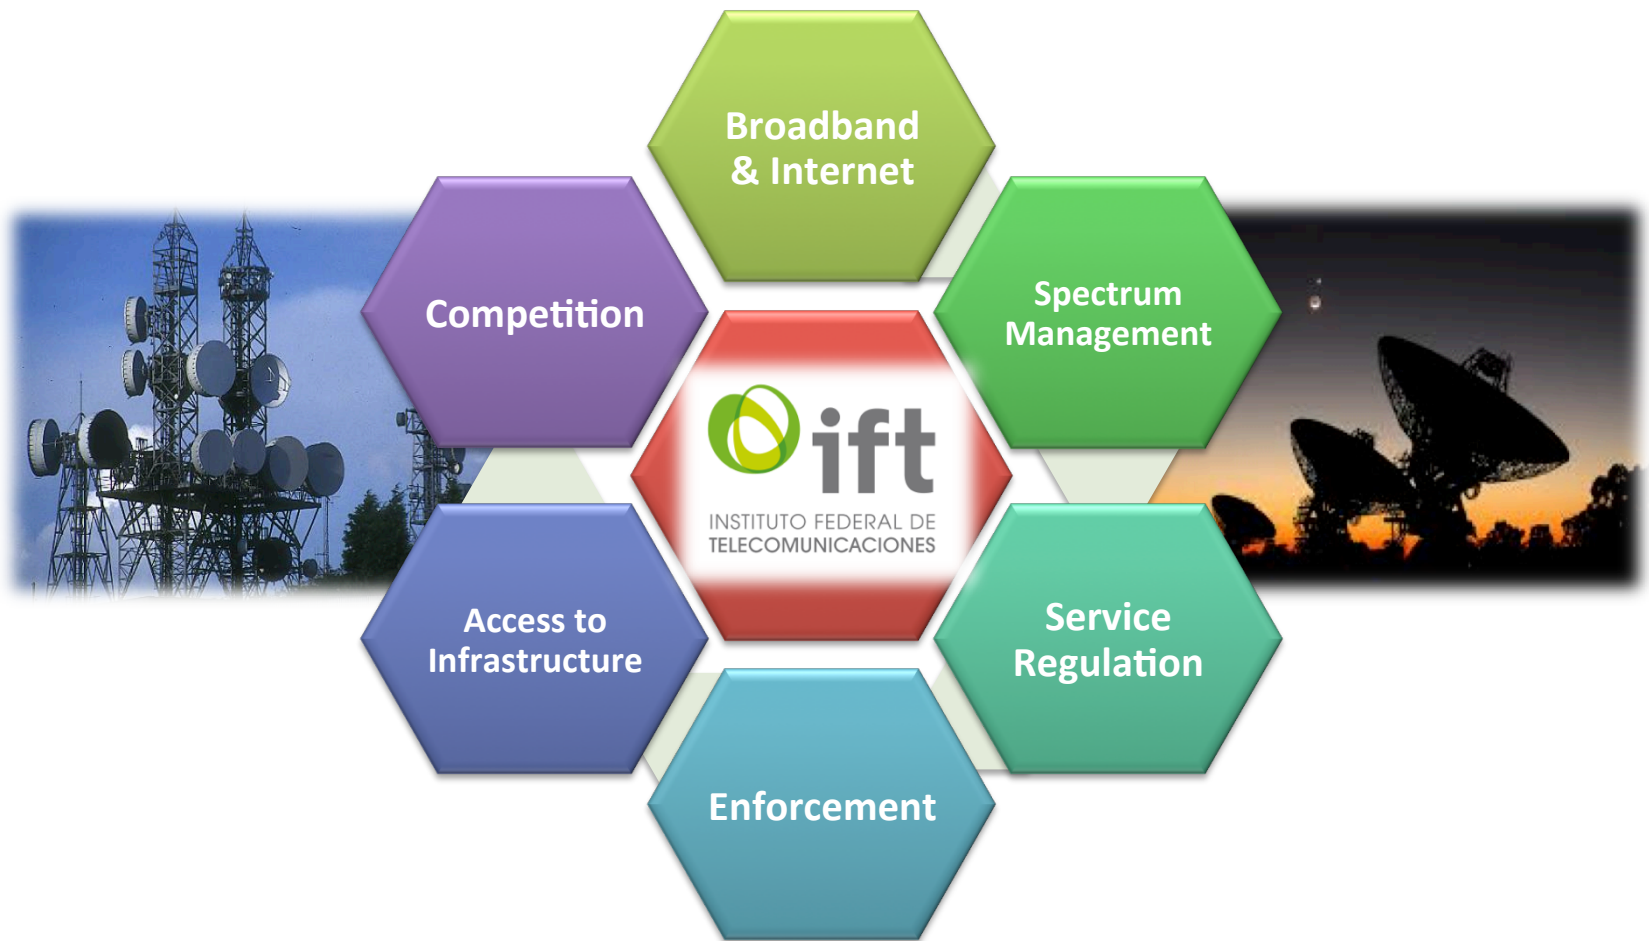

IFT's objective

Efficient Development of Broadcasting & Telecoms

Constitutional mandate:

The government will grant conditions for effective competition

Constitutional Leverage

Historical opportunity for economical growth

Telecommunications Reform

Foreign investment
100% Telecomm

Must carry/Must offer
rules

Two New Broadcast
Networks (DTV)

Analogue
Switchover
2015

Shared
Network
(Wholesale)
@700 MHz

Public Fibre
Optic Network
backbone

Convergent
licenses

*Preponderant
Economic Agents
Telecomm & Broadcasting*

Fostering competition thru multiple axes

CONCLUSION

The Telecommunications Reform is an economical growth opportunity

This Structural Reform has the strength of the Constitution and is focus on achieving better services thru competition

IFT emerged as a powerful regulator with a wide set of powers to grant an efficient development of broadcasting and telecoms

Multiple actions on telecommunications and broadcasting are in progress in Mexico with the participation of all government branches

www.ift.org.mx

fernando.borjon@ift.org.mx

@Fer_Borjon